

BRIEFINGS.

—Brace up.
—The "no bottom" signs can now be taken down.
—The pill men find diphtheria slightly on the increase.
—The clouds made a spasmodic and very unsatisfactory effort to let a few flakes of snow leak out to day. Try again.
—The weather treats a fellow quite coolly today. There's no reason for it to get mad. It's had its own way all winter.

—Ed. Higgins charged with robbing O'Donnell of a watch and chain and other valuables, is having his examination before Justice Patten to-day.

—Next Sunday will commence the week of prayer, commonly observed among the churches. The programme of services will be duly announced as soon as arranged.

—The funeral of Miss Rebecca Fox, whose death was announced yesterday, will take place at Trinity church to-morrow at 10:30 o'clock. All friends of the family are invited to be present.

—Joseph Skelly, of Shopiere, made his quarterly visit to Janesville today, and was heartily received by Marshal Keating, who looked him over for vagrancy. He is said to have already had some experience in patching up the streets.

—The well-known insurance firm of Williams & Smith have dissolved. H. A. Smith retiring. Mr. J. P. Williams will continue the business. As in the past so in the future he will doubtless receive his share of deserved patronage.

—The Temple of Honor realized about $5 from the annual festival given last week. The temple will find a ready use for this addition to its wallet, and its investment will doubtless more than repay the friends who have shown such substantial tokens of their sympathy in the good work.

—The Buffalo Bill Combination will play the sensational drama entitled "May Cody" at the Opera house Saturday evening. It is sensational, startling, and striking. The house ought to be and doubtless will be crowded. The reputation of the noted scout, and the excellent support he has, deserves a liberal patronage.

—A lively cock fight took place the other evening. A regular pit was made in a convenient building not far from the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets, and around this gathered a numerous representation of the sporting men of the city, whose names are for the present withheld from the public. There were several mains, resulting in the death of two of the birds.

THE WEATHER.

The mercury at 7 o'clock this morning stood at 14 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock 26 degrees above. Cloudy and windy with flurry of snow. A year ago to-day the thermometer indicated at corresponding hours of the day 6 degrees below and 8 degrees above. Clear and cold.

THE MUSIC LOVERS.

The gathering of the Musical Club last evening was of unusual interest, and the occasion called forth a goodly number of auditors. Mrs. M. D. Jones played Beethoven's Sonata Pathétique op. 13, with fine expression and admirable spirit. Miss Blinn rendered a spring song by Mendelssohn in a very appropriate and pleasing manner. Others furthered the exercises rendering the evening an interesting one.

THEY MUST PAY UP.

The controversy between certain property owners on Wisconsin street, and the city authorities, concerning the special assessment made for grading that street has at last reached a conclusion. The case was argued in chambers yesterday, Mr. Winans appearing for the contestants, who numbered about a half-dozen, Cassaday and Bates appearing for the contractors, Reed & Daley, and Mr. Carpenter for the city. The Judge decided that the special assessment must be paid, and judgment was accordingly rendered against the objecting tax-payers.

BEATEN AND BURNED.

William V. Stewart, spent his new years in the town of La Prairie. He returned to the city yesterday in rather a delapidated and battered condition. With a bruised face and bandaged head he stepped up before Justice Phelps and told his tale of woes charging Duncan Graham with assaulting him. He brought up as corroborative testimony a pair of unimpeachable witnesses showing the sad effects of being forced to sit down on a red hot stove. It was enough. A warrant was speedily penned, and an officer sent in search of the alleged offender, who will have a chance to throw some light on the case to-morrow.

LOOK OUT FOR FRITZ.

Joseph K. Emmet will appear at the Opera house next Wednesday evening, in the familiar character of "Fritz, Our Cousin German." This will allow the community to indulge in a dramatic treat of rare enjoyment. Mr. Emmet is the author of the comedy, and it will be presented with all its magnificent scenery, properties and mechanical effect that have marked its appearance elsewhere. The mere announcement of the treat in store, will doubtless be sufficient to cause every seat to be taken. Mr. Emmet will introduce his original songs and dances, and will be supported by a fine company. His reputation as the founder of the fascinating school of comedies in the German dialect is world wide. The play has had a wonderful effect wherever produced.

PROF. SEARING CAPTURED.

The friends of Milton College will be rejoiced to learn that Prof. Edward Searing A. M., the present Superintendent of Public Instruction, has been tendered and has accepted the Greek professorship in that institution. He will enter upon his duties as soon as practicable after the expiration of his present term of office. Prof. Searing stands high among the educationalists of the West, and a more suitable selection for the position could scarcely be made.

Coupled with thorough culture and accurate scholarship the professor has an aptness in imparting the same culture and scholarship to others which cannot fail to crown his new work with success. He will receive a hearty welcome by the students, and their high expectations of profit by contact with such a worthy instructor will doubtless be more than realized.

PERSONAL.

—Mrs. Charles Penniman is suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia.

—Miss Kittie Williams, daughter of Hon. C. G. Williams, starts for Washington this week.

—Miss Nellie Golder, one of the society favorites of Elkhorn, has been spending a few days with friends in this city.

—E. E. Zimmerman, the business manager of Joseph K. Emmet, is in the city. He looked more happy and less anxious after receiving a telegram from Philadelphia, saying it was a girl, and all well.

—Miss Emily Rice, who for some time past has occupied a prominent position on the corps of teachers in the Englewood Normal School, near Chicago, and who is now a teacher in the new academy recently established by Prof. Wentworth at Dalton, Ill., has been spending the holidays among friends in this city, having been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Tracy. She returned to-day to her school-work.

A SMALL SCARE.

At 3:45 o'clock this afternoon an alarm of fire was caused by a slight blaze in the rear part of O. E. Pich's hat and fur store, No. 21 West Milwaukee street. One of the employees was lighting a lamp filled with burning fluid when the flame spread suddenly over the entire lamp and communicated to a box filled with rags. A few pails-full of water speedily extinguished the blaze, so that the services of the fire engines, which were promptly on hand, were not needed.

FARLOR PLEASURES.

Last evening there was a joyous gathering of about fifty young people in the parlors of Dr. W. W. Chittenden's residence on Academy street. The reception was of a strictly informal nature, and no attempt was made to render it a full dress crush. The enjoyability of the occasion was in no way lessened on this account, and mirth and merriment held full sway. Music, instrumental and vocal, games and pleasant chat gave fleet feet to the hours, and caused them to pass lightly and swiftly. A well arranged and abundant spread amply satisfied the inner man, and added its share to the enjoyment of the evening. The Misses Chittenden displayed the happy faculty of placing their guests at ease, and providing for their enjoyment, and all who participated will doubtless set down the gathering among their happy memories of past pleasures.

CHARGED WITH CROCKEDNESS.

A stranger called at Stearns' drugstore yesterday, and purchased a bottle of biters and some horse medicine, claiming that he was employed by William Reed as a farm-hand, and that the goods should be charged to his employer. After the goods had been taken away one of the clerks discovered what he deemed to be satisfactory proof that the name of John Smith, given by the stranger, was an alias, and that he was the same individual who under the name of George Baker secured a small lot of goods at the same drugstore about a year ago, having the same charged to him. It was also discovered that he was not in the employ of Reed. This made the basis of a complaint, on which a warrant was issued charging him with obtaining goods under false pretenses. He was arrested and locked up on this charge, and will be given a chance to tell his side of the affair before Justice Patten.

THE PARSON'S LUCK.

A year ago the Spirit of the Turf, a paper somewhat known among Western horsemen, offered as a premium to its contributor producing the most and best articles during the year, a horse said to be valued at $1,000. Among those who entered the lists was Rev. H. Stone Richardson, son, late pastor of Court Street church, who under the alias of Greystone penned some quite readable articles on the horse, embracing many facts and fancies in equine science and illustrating them by the performances of a pet steed named Flaco. It is claimed that most of the thrilling adventures in which this steed took so active a part, were actual occurrences in the early life of the writer of the articles. The judges have awarded the prize to Mr. Richardson, who will now rejoice in the possession of a steed bearing the high sounding name of Forest Mambrino, and claimed to be worth $1,000. The value is doubtless somewhat overestimated, but if the steed proves to be a flyer and a stayer, doubtless the clerical gentleman will find sufficient enjoyment in holding the ribbons to make up for the time taken from more important and more strictly professional work. The gentleman's skill in handling turf topics will now stand higher than ever.

ART EDUCATION.

Now that the holiday dissipation are fairly over with, the serious problems of education again settle down upon every conscientious parent; and we desire to call attention to a much neglected department of education presented by Miss Daniels, whose business interest appears in our columns to-day. Miss Daniels comes to us fully equipped for her work, and her instruction lays the foundation in both the mechanical and fine arts. The industries of life are being sadly neglected in our education, and the only remedy is to begin early to train eye and hand. Miss Daniels' rooms are central, her prices very reasonable, and she is prepared to accommodate her pupils to those who attend the public schools as to the teachers of the same. For her primary pupils she also introduces the occupations of the Kindergarten now rising into recognition and usefulness in our country. There are scores of young children in the city who from age or lack of strength cannot safely enter the public schools, who need just such help as these to mould the mind while it is in its most plastic state and susceptible condition. Miss Daniels is anxious to organize her classes in the beginning of the week. We commend the enterprises to the parents of Janesville.

CONFUSED VISION.

We have an enterprising merchant among us who is in the habit of lying about until eight o'clock in the morning, but otherwise is all right. On New Year's morning his wife expected a lady friend on the Fond du Lac accommodation which reaches here a few minutes before seven. The merchant was too gallant to allow her to go from the depot to his house alone, and supposing that seven o'clock came before day-light he was determined to be on hand in time. As soon as he awoke he bounded out of bed and looked at his clock, which to his mind indicated twenty minutes to seven. He dressed himself hurriedly, rushed to the barn, hitched his horse to his carriage, and drove rapidly to the depot but found no train. After waiting a while in solitary contemplation of the new year, an employee of the road passed along, when he inquired if the train was in? He was informed that it had gone long before. "What," said he, "has the seven o'clock train for Chicago gone?" "Gone!" said the employee, "why it is not yet four o'clock." The merchant made no response but drove home more rapidly than he came. When he got into his house, he stepped up before the clock, and in the dim gas light addressed it as follows: "When I purchased you at the beginning of my marriage life, you came well recommended, and for a time you had my confidence. After a while you began to deceive me, and these deceptions became more pregnant and are now intolerable. But I tell you now, this is the last time you will ever fool me into getting up at 4 o'clock in the morning." This last remark was spoken with great emphasis, and woke up his wife, who kindly interposed by saying, "My dear, I presume your vision was a little confused by the dimness of the gas light, and the laudible desire of being polite to my lady friend, but don't scold the clock on that account." Our reporter could get no further particulars, except that the clock is still on the wall ticking off the time the same as if the Fond du Lac train was in the habit of arriving at nine instead of seven.

A Vanst. Army of Sufferers.

Jack Turner, of St. Paul, writes: "The whole continent is sending its vast army of sufferers up to this beautiful climate where the pure, soft, balmy air seems to invigorate and restore the emaciated form to a healthy, robust, vigorous manhood again. Thousands come here with throat and lung diseases, usually accompanied with an aggravated cough, and many entirely recover; but by making inquiries you will find that three quarters of those restored, commenced taking Hale's Cough Cordial, by the advice of some friend, as soon as they arrived here. This medicine is as simple as flour up here." Such letters as this are pouring in from all parts of the country. dec29-76d1d

German Syrup.

No other medicine in the world was ever given such a test of its curative qualities as Boschee's German Syrup. The result has been that druggists in every town and village in the United States are recommending it to their customers. Go to your druggist, and ask what they know about it. I take great pleasure in introducing Miss Daniels to the Janesville public, not only on her own account as a lady of culture, excellent aims and commendable energy, but also in consideration of the very valuable branch of neglected culture that she represents. There is no reason why any one who can put on paper a good looking "Q," should not learn also to make a decent looking image of a post, and some one who will realize that there are dollars and cents enough in such training to satisfy the most practical Gradgrind. To make amends for the omission of such a useful and eye training in my own life, my little ones are to start their systematic education where mine has not yet begun, in the study of form and the reproduction of outline under the direction of Miss Daniels.
